- Most Wanted

- OLD DESIGN

As Editorial Designer at NET-A-PORTER, I reimagined an underperforming franchise by evolving it from a static product-led layout into a more dynamic, fashion-forward editorial concept that combined cut-out runway imagery, styling, and graphic composition to create a stronger visual identity and increase engagement.

Designed a suite of creative assets for Porter's Christmas campaign, developed for use across editorial features and social media. The assets were designed to create a cohesive seasonal visual identity while adapting seamlessly across different formats and channels.

MR PORTER

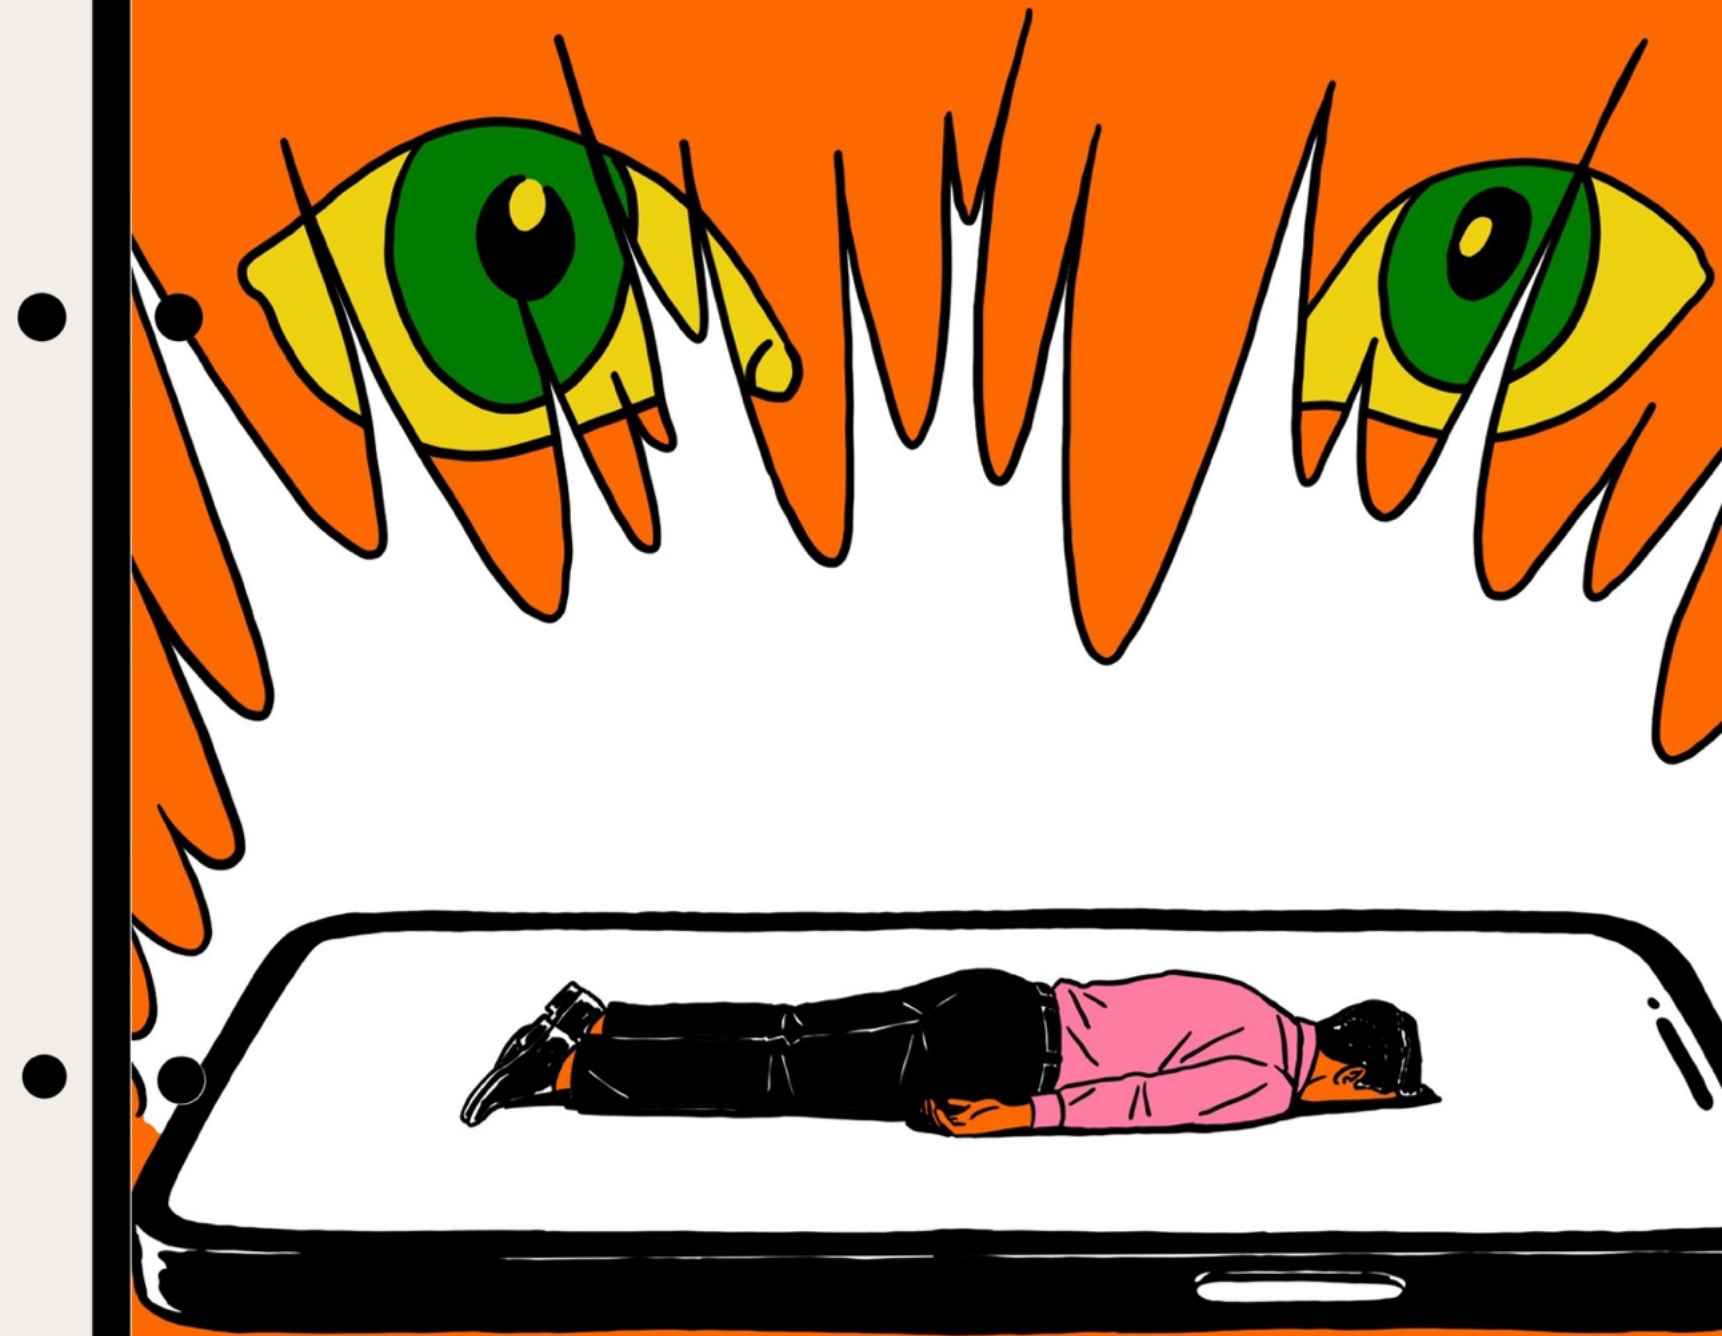

THE JOURNAL

For MR PORTER, I developed a new editorial franchise concept informed by contemporary Japanese magazine layouts, archival catalogues, and graphic storytelling, translating the research into a clean, modular design system that elevated product discovery through a more directional and culturally driven visual approach.

THE JOURNAL

Art Direction for illustrated features on MR PORTER's THE JOURNAL, created to support the Health In Mind series exploring men's mental health. Collaborated closely with editors and illustrators to develop thoughtful visual narratives that sensitively complemented each feature's subject matter.

SHOW NOTES

Milan fashion week:
sensual and sophisticated

Missoni and Marni gave lessons in artful layering

Elbow-length gloves + extra-tall boots = fall essentials

SHOW NOTES

Brocades, satins, ribbons and lace... London does Gothic romance to a T

Martini olive green:
the color to covet for fall

Tweed and bouclé textures reign supreme

Created and designed social-first lead assets for NET-A-PORTER Fashion Week campaigns, highlighting six key trend takeaways. Increased social engagement by combining dynamic runway video with high-impact still imagery to create visually immersive content.

LIFE OF A SHOWGIRL

An abundance of ruffles, feathers and sparkling embellishments brought showgirl glamour to the runways.

TWEED WITH A TWIST

Checked tweed twinsets brought both femininity and a punkish edge to the runways.

PRACTICAL MATTERS

Windbreakers, parkas and sporty track jackets were layered over shorts and cocktail dresses for an unexpectedly cool contrast.
